

Faculty and Laboratory Information for the student

The Office of Research and Development has collected and assembled information on laboratories and investigators that will allow you to discover the exciting research opportunities available to you at the University of Nebraska Medical Center. You will find this web site useful if you are currently enrolled at the Medical Center, if you're an incoming student, or if you haven't yet determined if the Medical Center has the opportunities you're looking for . . .

To begin, click on departments.

UNMC's Durham Research Center