

Research Conference

Research fellows give two Research Conferences. One, scheduled early in the year, is designed to outline their plan for research including hypothesis, specific aims, background and material and methods they will be using. At the end of the year, they will present a research conference showing their productivity for the year and any planned extensions of their research in the subsequent third year.