

Delta Omega

HONORARY SOCIETY IN PUBLIC HEALTH

WHAT IS DELTA OMEGA?

The Delta Omega Honorary Society in Public Health was founded in 1924 at Johns Hopkins University within the School of Hygiene and Public Health (now known as Bloomberg School of Public Health) by two graduate students in order to promote the graduate study of public health, and to recognize outstanding achievement in the new field.

The Gamma Omicron Chapter of Delta Omega Honorary Society in Public Health was established at the University of Nebraska Medical Center, College of Public Health in 2013.

HOW TO JOIN

Members are nominated through a highly-selective process that assesses their outstanding performance and devotion to the field on a yearly basis.

MEMBER BENEFITS

Leadership development, networking opportunities, and access to discounted resources.

STUDENT POSTER SESSION

All students are encouraged to submit an abstract to the Delta Omega Student Poster Session! This session showcases the excellent scholarship and research of public health students.

Students whose work is selected by the UNMC COPH Chapter receive both a cash prize awarded by the national office, as well as the opportunity to present their work during the American Public Health Association (APHA) annual meeting.
