“The UNMC College of Nursing has a deep 104-year history of educating nurses for innovation and success in health care systems, in the community and in the many other places in which nurses make a difference. We strive to keep pushing forward for new solutions to today’s health care needs while expanding education of nurses at baccalaureate and higher degree levels. Our work builds on an important legacy of the college: supporting nurse leadership and innovation, a legacy built on the keen insights of those who saw the true power and compassion of nurses. As a crucial part of our continued legacy, I would personally like to thank you for your generous contribution to this fund.”
