Overview

- Lifespan Perspective of Sexual Functioning
- Common Changes & Concerns
- Common Challenges
  - Medications, illness, disability
  - Pregnancy and infertility
  - Body changes
  - Partner loss
  - Trauma

Lifespan Perspective

Sexual Development is…

- Lifelong
- Multidimensional
- Multidirectional
- Contextual
- Plastic

Lifespan Perspective

Sexual Development is…. Lifelong

- Pop Perspective
  - Start date (puberty) – End date (middle/old age)
  - Sexuality is something we do
    - Expectations of asexuality & hypersexuality
    - Sexual stigmatization & oppression
- Lifespan Perspective
  - From birth to death
  - Sexuality is part of who we are
Lifespan Perspective

Sexual Development is.... Multidimensional

- Pop Perspective
  - Sexuality is a primarily biological experience
  - Sexuality happens to us

- Lifespan Perspective
  - Sexuality is biopsychosocial
  - We shape our sexuality and it shapes us

---

Lifespan Perspective

Sexual Development is.... Multidirectional

- Pop Perspective
  - Sexuality is a bell curve
  - Sexual challenges = sexual demise

- Lifespan Perspective
  - Sexuality has multiple peaks & valleys
  - Challenges are temporary & can be addressed

---

Lifespan Perspective

Sexual Development is.... Contextual

- Pop Perspective
  - Sexuality is stable & scripted

- Lifespan Perspective
  - Sexuality is complex & variable
    - Biological/Environmental factors
    - Cohort factors
    - Individual life occurrences
Lifespan Perspective
Sexual Development is... Plastic
  • Pop Perspective
    • Sexuality is beyond our control
    • Gracefully accept our sexual lot
  • Lifespan Perspective
    • Interventions can address sexual concerns
    • Fulfilling and satisfying sexuality

Sexual Development
  • Framework for discussing sexual development
    • Norms – what’s common
    • Normal – what’s acceptable
    • Normative – what’s desirable
    • Concerns – what may be problematic

Sexual Development
  • Most people masturbate
  • Both masturbating and not masturbating are healthy and there are no negative side effects
  • Masturbation should be done in private, either alone or with consenting partners
  • We’re concerned when masturbation is excessive, compulsive, or the only method of coping
Sexual Development

Early Childhood – normal & normative
- Learning the pleasure of touch
- Intimacy & attachment
- Developing & expressing gender & sexual identities
- Curiosity about their bodies and others
- Touching & rubbing is common
- Self, peer, & near-peer exploration is common

Sexual Development

Early Childhood - concerns
- Lack of basic “good enough” nurturing from parents
- Lack of information about one’s sexuality latency
- Fear, shame, or guilt about one’s sexuality, gender, body, & appearance
- “Excessive” preoccupation with sexuality, sexual behaviors, or molesting others

Sexual Development

Adolescents & Young Adults – normal & normative
- Puberty and rapid physical development
- Differentiation from family of origin
- Developing & expressing gender & sexual identities
- Continued sexual exploration with self & peers
- Developing intimate relationships
Sexual Development
Adolescents & Young Adults - concerns
- Fear, shame, confusion about one's sexuality, gender, body, or appearance
- Isolation, anxiety, depression, eating disorders, etc.
- Lack of accurate, inclusive, & affirming information
- Lack of access to sexual health services
- Exploitative sexual behaviors
- Problematic relationships
- High sexual risk-taking

Sexual Development
Young, Middle, & Older Adults – normal & normative
- Developing & maintaining intimate relationships
- Changing relationships
- Development through family life cycles
- Changes in physical sexual functioning

Sexual Development
Young, Middle, & Older Adults – concerns
- All of the previous concerns
- Concerns developing or committing to intimate relationships
- Concerns maintaining intimate relationships
- Concerns with changing relationships or loss of relationships
- Concerns with addressing and adapting to changes in sexual functioning
Sexual Challenges

- Medications, Illness, Disability
- Pregnancy & Infertility
- Body Changes
- Normal physical aging
- Partner Loss
- Trauma

Sexual Challenges

- Variable impacts on sexual functioning
- Health professionals frequently overlook sexual impact
- Misinformation, often drawing on pop perspectives of sexuality
- You don’t need to be an expert to ask & help address

Medication, Illness, & Disability

- Medications
  - Wide range, but esp. psychotropic, hypertensive, & hormone
  - Can impact desire, pleasure, “performance”
  - Knowledge & communication gap between providers & patients
Medication, Illness, & Disability

- Illness & Disability
  - Wide range, but esp. stigmatizing, cognitive, cardiovascular, nervous systems
  - Can impact desire, pleasure, “performance”
  - Can impact perception of desirability
  - May limit or change sexual acts or positions (both chronic & temporary)
  - Knowledge & communication gap between providers & patients

Pregnancy & Infertility

- Pregnancy
  - Variable impact (increase, decrease, or no change in desire or pleasure)
  - Safety misconceptions, cultural messages about motherhood vs. sexual being
  - Cultural messages about pregnancy as punishment
  - Perceptions of desirability

- Infertility
  - Variable impact, decreased sense of sexual confidence & adequacy
  - Increased relationship conflict, decreased satisfaction
  - Increased sexual dysfunction, decreased sexual frequency
  - Profound sense of loss in multiple areas
  - Lack of communication by professional providers
Body Changes

- Weight gain or loss
  - Can be similar to pregnancy or disability experiences, but culturally viewed as under individual control
  - Impact perceptions of desirability, sexual self-worth
  - Partner conflicts, esp. discordant body changes
  - Avoidance of sexual stigmatization or fetishization

Partner Loss

- Divorce
  - Variable sexual impact
  - Grief and loss
  - Betrayal, esp. with infidelity
  - Decreased sexual frequency both before and after divorce
  - Sexual health concerns with STI exposure

- Death
  - Grief and loss
  - Feelings of betrayal or guilt
  - Cultural messages about appropriateness of desire
  - Isolation
  - Lack of professional communication about sexual loss
Trauma

- Sexual Trauma
  - Variable impact
  - May interrupt development and maintenance of intimacy
  - Guilt and shame, esp. if pleasure experienced
  - Perfect survivor narratives
- Other Trauma
  - Stress frequently has sexual impacts
  - Variable impacts on intimacy (avoidance, enmeshment, no impact)

Asking about Sexual Challenges

- Normalize sexual challenges
  - Often times...
  - Some people...
  - It's common...
- Give & ask permission
  - Intake forms
  - Introduce & follow-up
  - May I... or Can we...
- Realistic optimism

Addressing Sexual Challenges

- Grief & Loss
- Solution-Focused
- Cognitive Behavioral
- Family Structure
- Problem-Interaction Sequence
- Family-Societal Interface
- Individual/Family of Origin Interface

Quick Case Study

Glenda is a 63 year old high school teacher; her husband of 40 years died suddenly last winter. Glenda recently began dating Jim, aged 55, and is considering having a sexual relationship with him. Her only sexual experience has been with her husband, and she is concerned about the changes in her body from aging, and her use of medications for hypertension in regard to sexual desire and enjoyment. She asks you for an appointment to discuss these issues and for resources she could access.
