

10th Annual NPQIC Fall Summit

A Decade of Dedication—Advancing Excellence in Perinatal Care

Friday, Sept. 12

UNO Scott Conference Center
6450 Pine Street, Omaha, NE 68106

Join the Nebraska Perinatal Quality Improvement Collaborative (NPQIC) as we celebrate ten years of progress in maternal and newborn health at the 10th Annual Fall Summit. This year's event will focus on key issues in perinatal care, including obstetric hemorrhage, amniotic fluid embolism, birth trauma, perinatal mental health, substance use disorders, and syphilis.

Expert-led sessions will equip attendees to manage serious complications while also addressing the emotional impact of birth challenges on patients, families, and care teams. The Summit will emphasize the value of patient and community engagement and offer practical strategies to incorporate lived experiences into care improvement.

Participants will also enjoy valuable networking opportunities with perinatal professionals from across Nebraska. Don't miss this opportunity to connect, learn, and continue advancing excellence in perinatal care.

Target Audience

This accredited continuing education activity is designed for physicians, advanced practice providers, and nurse leaders.

Summit Objectives

At the conclusion of this activity, the participant should be better able to:

1. Discuss strategies for implementing interdisciplinary approaches to improve maternal and infant health outcomes at the population level through statewide collaboration and quality improvement efforts.
2. Describe trauma-informed care practices that support recovery and resilience in patients, families, and health care teams following complex perinatal events.
3. Identify high-risk perinatal conditions including obstetric hemorrhage, amniotic fluid embolism, and perinatal mental health or substance use disorders using evidence-based, team-based approaches.
4. Integrate patient and community perspectives into perinatal care and systems improvement initiatives to reduce disparities and enhance population health outcomes across Nebraska.
