

CENTRIC: Assessment of Need

Center for Patient Family and Community Engagement in Chronic Care Management
<https://www.unmc.edu/centric>

Purpose

CENTRIC is working to determine how we can best support faculty in developing their program of research. Specifically, we have developed an assessment for you to propose studies that focus on Technology Interventions for Self-Management: Promoting Access and Equity across the Lifespan.

We have planned an open forum on May 22nd 1-3 pm to meet with faculty who are interested in the proposed focus area. Your responses to the assessment questions will be due July 1st. After we receive the responses, our goal is to develop funding mechanisms and infrastructure to move forward with planned projects that will subsequently lead to external grant submissions.

Assessment Questions

Please provide a response to the following questions:

1. What idea/proposal do you have that supports Technology Interventions for Self-Management: Promoting Access and Equity across the Lifespan?

Explain your idea or innovation for self-management and why you believe delivering on such addresses the challenge of promoting access and equity for self-management.

2. How is it innovative and potentially transformative?

Outline why it is novel and how it could provide a transformational solution compared to existing or alternative approaches.

3. What are the next steps or issues that need to be addressed and what are possible challenges you may face in developing or delivering on your idea or proposal?

List the next steps/issues to be addressed. Discuss the challenges (e.g. technical, economic, ethical, social, political, legal) you may face.

4. What types of resources and support would you need from CENTRIC?

Please list resources (e.g. statistical, technical, etc.), including financial support (e.g. government or university grants, venture capital etc.), if any, you have identified or been awarded to address your idea. If you have not secured any resources, please explain what resources will be valuable to you, who you will target to provide the resources, and the estimated cost of the resources. Please list any commercial partners you have engaged to develop your idea or innovation.

Responses are due July 1

Questions? please contact Laura Robbins at laura.robbins@unmc.edu.