From the Dean

Greetings alumni and friends!

During this unprecedented time in our nation and in our communities, I want you to know that I am thinking of you and your families. While the COVID-19 pandemic has affected our lives in many ways, it is during challenging times that we are reminded of how much we have to be thankful for, and every day I am reminded of how grateful I am to be part of the College of Dentistry community.

Our faculty, staff, students, alumni and friends of the college have come together to help the college overcome the unexpected challenges that have arisen due to the COVID-19 pandemic. In this issue of Impressions, you'll find stories about the people of the College of Dentistry and their resiliency, tenacity and strength. The college continues to thrive as we convert challenges into opportunities and navigate this journey together.

As I reflect on the 2019-20 academic year, I am inspired by all our community achieved — our faculty, staff, students, alumni and friends of our college all had important roles in helping to continue the College of Dentistry's 120-year tradition of excellence in education, research and patient care. On the following pages, you'll find stories about our alumni who are making important contributions to the dental profession, and our newest graduates who have the hearts and passion to be truly extraordinary oral health care professionals. These individuals are remarkable representatives for the College of Dentistry.

We celebrate how we are transforming dental education in our clinical and virtual simulation laboratory and digital design studio. Our students are immersed in innovative educational experiences, developing cutting-edge skills and growing into tomorrow's leaders in oral health.

We celebrate the college's growth with the completed renovation of our dental clinic in Omaha and our revitalized partnership with UNMC's Munroe-Meyer Institute that will allow the college to provide dental services for patients with developmental and intellectual disabilities.

We celebrate our long-standing tradition of community service. We continue to provide important oral health services and education to diverse groups of Nebraskans. Our outreach activities help adults and children throughout the state.

We celebrate the achievements of our faculty and students. Our students are aspiring to make important contributions to the profession and eliminate health disparities through their outreach and research projects. Our faculty continue to receive recognition for their work in education, patient care and research, and every day make a profound difference in the lives of our students, inspiring them to become extraordinary oral health professionals.

We celebrate how we are working to create a more diverse and inclusive community where all are welcomed. We have held a listening session and a workshop on inclusivity to empower students, faculty and staff to work together to better promote diversity, inclusion and equity for all.

Our community has much to be thankful for. Now and forever, we will continue to come together to overcome unexpected challenges and celebrate our achievements. As always, thank you for your continued support and encouragement.

Dental hygiene grads first to test on manikins

The UNMC Dental Hygiene class of 2020 is the first class in the nation to complete the required clinical licensure examination using simulated manikins.

It took three months from the time the students graduated on May 7, 2020, before they would get to take the exam for their license to practice.

“We felt like we were in limbo, just waiting and not knowing what to do,” said Beth Shavlik, a dental hygiene graduate now practicing in Omaha. “There was definitely a bit of pressure from our employers, who were asking when we would get our license and could come join their practice, so it was rough going for a while.”

All of the graduates had secured employment but knew they would be unable to practice until completing the National Board Dental Hygiene Exam (NBDHE) and a required clinical licensure examination.

Due to the restrictions of the COVID-19 pandemic, the dental hygiene graduates were not allowed to take the traditional, in-person patient-based licensure exam and were unsure when they would get the opportunity to do so.

During the last five weeks of the semester when the university campus closed, faculty quickly developed objective, structured clinical examinations to evaluate adjunct procedures such as amalgam marginations and placement of localized chemotherapeutics, among others for the students.

Patient education and caries risk assessments were evaluated during senior case presentations via Zoom. Clinical skills assessment was conducted via individual, two-hour Zoom sessions with faculty focusing on instrumentation technique and identifying weaknesses in students’ skills.

A virtual graduation occurred on time with all of the dental hygiene students having met the requirements of the program.

In the meantime, Gwen Hlava, chair of the department of dental hygiene, and others figured out a way for the students to take the NBDHE.

“It meant that over the course of three months, our graduates would travel to five different states to sit for their NBDHE exam,” Hlava said.

Still, the clinical examination remained in question.

“We had several important conversations with the Nebraska Department of Health and Human Services, the Nebraska Board of Dentistry and a regional testing agency concerning the predicament of a patient-based licensing examination and possible alternatives,” Hlava said.

A solution was found through ongoing conversations with Central Regional Dental Testing Service (CRDTS), which resulted in their willingness to administer the first simulated patient dental hygiene manikin exam by adapting their dental periodontal manikin examination to accommodate the new graduates.

Approval was obtained from the Nebraska Board of Dentistry to allow the 2020 dental hygiene graduates to complete a manikin exam necessary for licensure, and the exam was held June 26.

“It was a little unnerving taking the exam. No one had taken a manikin exam before and we didn’t know what to expect and things felt different than they would on a real person but in the midst of a pandemic it was definitely a better alternative to not taking the exam at all,” Shavlik said.

Shavlik said that while she was nervous to finally be able to take the exam, it was gratifying to be able to exhibit the skills she had learned and mastered.

“When we got the call it was like a sigh of relief. We could finally move forward,” she said.

“The opportunity to complete this examination eliminated a potential months-long wait for licensure and our graduates are now fully employed,” Hlava said.

See pages 12-15 for more stories about how the College of Dentistry’s faculty, staff, students, alumni and friends of the college have come together to help the college overcome the unexpected challenges that have arisen due to the COVID-19 pandemic.

Special Message

From Dr. Paula Harre, College of Dentistry
Alumni Association President

I hope this message finds you all doing well amidst the uncertainty we have all faced in recent weeks and months. As a result of this global pandemic, the dental profession has been impacted in ways many of us would never have predicted. Together we face many challenges that we will overcome. UNMC College of Dentistry alums have incredible resiliency, strength and compassion. Especially during this uncertain time, our unwavering dedication to making a difference in our patients' lives and our communities makes us extraordinary oral health care providers.

Prior to the onset of the pandemic, our College of Dentistry Alumni Association (CODAA) had spent a significant amount of time charting a new course ahead. After thoughtful research, careful consideration, and an eye to an exciting future, our CODAA Board of Directors voted earlier this year to adopt a new model for alumni engagement in partnership with the College of Dentistry and the UNMC Alumni Association. This new model mirrors UNMC's other college alumni groups, while enabling the College of Dentistry Alumni Board to maintain its traditions and autonomy.

To provide a national context to this endeavor, you should know that the work of volunteer alumni associations continues to evolve to best support the institutions we love. While our main goals remain in place, such as facilitating class reunions, disseminating informative communications, and providing philanthropic support to the college and its students, our board is committed to broaden and deepen our scope as needed. That said, going forward we hope to focus on further advancing excellence in the College of Dentistry through partnering with you, our alumni, and building the next generation of alumni leaders.

Our primary goal is to continue to build on our strong tradition and re-focus our work on strategic alumni engagement and to extend our close collaboration with the college to engage you with your alma mater. There will be two key changes:

The College of Dentistry and the CODAA will partner with the UNMC Alumni Relations Office to provide programmatic support for strategic planning, to help execute our goals, and for key administrative support.

In partnership with the University of Nebraska Foundation, we will implement national best practices in annual giving and create the College of Dentistry Innovation Fund. This new fund will take the place of the CODAA's two existing funds for new gifts and will be used towards purposes of most need to the college and its students, including support for the people and programs of the alumni association, student and alumni engagement and programming, and the general advancement of the college. In addition, the Innovation Fund will support emerging needs and priorities and right now those needs are changing rapidly.

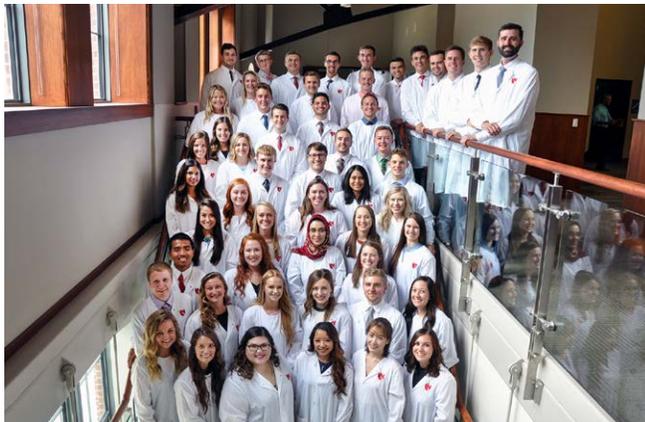

Thank you for all you have done and will continue to do to give back to UNMC and support our students. Now, more than ever, the College of Dentistry will need our ongoing support. We are proud to serve the College of Dentistry and our fellow alumni, and we look forward to continuing to share updates with you in the months ahead.

Stay healthy and well, and thanks for all you do.

Yours very truly,
Paula Harre, DDS '82

“Thank you for all you have done and will continue to do to give back to UNMC and build excellence in our college and for students. Now, more than ever, the College of Dentistry will need our ongoing support.”

The College of Dentistry Alumni Association supports:

The annual white coat ceremony;

The post-commencement reception;

Student travel to national conferences;

And the college's emerging needs and priorities.

Special: Pandemic Response

Alumni help with pandemic response course

College's alumni help students form an understanding of the unique problems practicing dentists face.

The COVID-19 pandemic brought an additional challenge to the College of Dentistry. In keeping with state requirements to restrict the practice of dentistry to emergency care and to help keep students safe, all spring semester extramural rotations were suspended. However, this situation prompted the college to develop innovative ways to help students form an understanding of the unique problems practicing dentists face.

Through a partnership with the UNMC College of Medicine and the UNMC College of Public Health, the College of Dentistry offered third- and fourth-year dental students a remote 'pandemic response' course to study in real time how COVID-19 affects health care practitioners, society and the health care system. Throughout April 2020, the students joined UNMC medical students for lectures on various subjects including disaster relief planning, and current health care practitioners shared their experiences overcoming obstacles.

Sean Figy, MD, assistant professor of surgery, and Regan Taylor, MD, assistant professor of internal medicine, both with the UNMC College of Medicine, co-lead development of the course.

"The great thing about UNMC is that we have world experts in so many aspects of emergency preparedness and infectious diseases," said Dr. Figy. "We took advantage of that expertise and created a truly multidisciplinary course that looks beyond the basic science and clinical science of COVID-19, but also how this affects the mind, body and soul of the community at large."

Jillian Wallen, BDS, MS, assistant dean for extramural activities and outreach for the College of Dentistry, was one of the course facilitators.

"Many College of Dentistry alums shared their time and expertise to help our students form an understanding of the problems dentists are facing during this challenging time. These alums had an important role in offering our students an innovative educational experience," Wallen said.

Paula Harre, DDS, was one of the alums who shared a historical perspective with students.

"It was great getting to hear alums share their uncensored fears, plans and advice regarding these unprecedented times. The extensive discussions about new protective equipment protocols and how dental businesses have been affected financially gave great insight into our futures in post-COVID-19 dentistry. Not to mention, the course was a great means of staying connected with our UNMC family, including our alumni." — Mariah Heft, third-year dental student

"I talked about my experience as a new graduate in the early 1980s starting a dental practice in a small community during the discovery of the AIDS virus," Harre said. "The situations I faced mirror what many dentists may experience during the COVID-19 pandemic: patients were fearful of contracting AIDs during a dental procedure, some were unable to pay for needed dental care due to the bleak economic situation, and the cost of doing business increased due to the additional costs of personal protective equipment."

"My intent was to let the students know that practicing dentists encounter obstacles throughout their careers. It's the ability to adapt that is critical. Through sharing my experiences, I wanted to assure them that I was able to overcome obstacles, just as they will be able to do throughout their careers," Harre said.

James F. Jenkins, DDS, a College of Dentistry alum and current associate professor and director of alumni affairs for the college, also participated in the course.

"I had the pleasure of being part of a panel discussion with three other dentists, sharing what we are doing to practice dentistry again in the face of the pandemic. It was very interesting to hear four dentists' different perspectives on how they will be safely delivering dental care during the pandemic. I felt the entire course was very well received by everyone involved," Jenkins said.

Cam Aitken, a third-year dental student, gained important knowledge that will help with future problem-solving.

"The topics we covered helped prepare us to face whatever challenges are thrown our way," Aitken said.

Remote learning presents challenges, opportunities

Remote learning started in March 2020 in order to follow social distancing guidelines. Classes were delivered remotely, and the college purchased equipment to allow students to continue to practice their clinical skills at home. The college's faculty have exhibited an unwavering commitment to their students while showing their creativity and passion for education. Many ingenious ideas have surfaced that will forever change the way faculty teach, and students are paving the way for new methods of learning.

David G. Dunning, MA, PhD

One example of innovation in remote learning was Dr. David Dunning's practice management class for third-year dental students.

"I featured guest speakers via Zoom. I had the students watch the classroom discussions from last year and submit questions in advance. For example, Dr. Dan Gleason gave an update on how COVID-19 is affecting private practices, then the 45-minute class extended to 75-minutes as Dr. Gleason answered questions."

Olivia Straka, a student in Dr. Dunning's class, said, "Our class was incredibly lucky to have Dr. Dunning teaching this course during a time when everything was flipped upside down. I am thankful for the amount of time that he put in to make sure that we still got the same experience as we would have in the classroom. He wanted to make sure that we learned as much as we could about practice management. Even with COVID-19, we were able to hear from excellent speakers."

Forefront of Learning

When access to the college's clinical and virtual simulation laboratory was limited due to the shift to remote learning, students were able to continue practicing their hand skills at home with electric handpieces and other equipment purchased by the College of Dentistry.

Pandemic Response Timeline

March 2020: The college establishes a COVID-19 Incident Command Team to lead efforts related to the pandemic. Remote learning begins; classroom-based courses are taught digitally. Clinics start treating emergency patients only; faculty and residents provide care. Student and resident rotations are suspended and outreach activities are postponed. Employees start working remotely.

May 2020: All senior students complete their graduation requirements on time and are recognized during a virtual commencement ceremony. (see page 14)

June 2020: Comprehensive patient care resumes in a conservative, phased approach. (see page 12) Laboratory instruction resumes, following social distancing guidelines and other directed health measures.

Fall 2020: First-year dental and dental hygiene students are onsite for 100% of their learning; upper classes have a combination of onsite and hybrid learning. 100% attendance onsite in all simulation laboratory classes in the newly renovated clinical and virtual simulation laboratory which allows for physical distancing; students are performing well because they were able to practice hand skills at home during the summer.

Patient care resumes in a phased approach

The College of Dentistry's clinic reentry task force, along with college administration and UNMC infectious disease experts worked to determine how to resume patient care while keeping students, faculty, staff and patients safe. Following is a summary of the clinic reentry process and the changes that were made so students could resume their clinical educational experiences in the safest environments possible, and patients could resume receiving routine, urgent and emergency dental care.

Timeline:

- On March 16, Nebraska closes dental offices for routine care. Starting March 17, the college's faculty and resident clinic teams continue to serve communities by providing important emergency patient care services in the following clinics: Lincoln, Durham Outpatient Center, and Children's Hospital and Medical Center.
- In April, a clinic reentry task force is formed that develops guiding principles for resuming patient care.
- On May 4, Nebraska opens dental offices for elective procedures.
- On May 29, the college's clinic reentry manual is published, which is based on recommendations from the clinic reentry task force and guidelines from numerous sources, including: CDC; OSHA; ADA; NDA; UNMC infectious disease experts, engineers and facilities teams; and other dental programs.
- Key differences between a private practice and a dental school that affect reopening:
 - » large open bay operatories vs. smaller controlled environments;
 - » large college community (faculty, staff, students, patients); and
 - » the experience of operators (dental students and residents).

Phased opening:

Guided by the clinic reentry manual, the college embarks on a phased opening:

- Phase I: Emergency and urgent care.
- Phase II: Postgraduate programs and UDA (faculty practice) resume providing patient care in June 2020.
- Phase III: Predoctoral students receive training in the simulation lab and clinic, then resume providing patient care in July 2020.

Changes that were made to create the safest possible environments:

1. Redesigned service operation and flow from the time a patient is contacted to the time they exit the college.
2. Made changes to deal with airflow and clinic spacing to conform with the ever-changing guidelines and recommendations from organizations such as the CDC.
3. Made changes in treatment approaches to minimize aerosol generating procedures; purchased extraoral high evacuation suction units to assist in minimizing such aerosols.
4. Students are paired up as first and second operators and there is an assistant for procedures. Made changes to clinic workflow so runners are available to get needed supplies and alert faculty and staff when students need assistance.
5. Secured an adequate PPE supply of gowns, face shields, masks and respirators. Provided fit testing of N95 respirators for all students and staff. Provided PPE training for students and staff on new donning and doffing procedures.
6. Trained providers on nasopharyngeal swab collection and partnered with the Nebraska Public Health Laboratory to test patients for COVID-19 before they are scheduled for aerosol generating dental procedures (using the gold standard in COVID-19 testing).

A team of faculty and residents created training videos for the College of Dentistry community demonstrating proper PPE donning and doffing.

7. Redesigned the electronic health record to add patient screening questionnaires.
8. Received the NE CARES Response and Recovery Award and Stabilization Grant to create nine airborne isolation infection rooms for safety (3 rooms in Lincoln Dental Clinic; 3 rooms in Omaha Dental Clinic; 3 rooms in Munroe-Meyer Institute) and purchase extraoral evacuation units.

Updated clinical protocols - October 2020:

As we have learned more about SARS-CoV-2 infections and transmission of the virus, the college has continuously evaluated the clinical protocols and the evolving guidelines published by the CDC, OSHA, and the ADA, and continued discussions with other dental schools throughout the country. Evolving evidence and acquisition of supplies supports the following changes in the college's clinic protocols:

1. Changes in COVID-19 testing protocols. (Adults – continue PCR testing for high-risk aerosol generating procedures, Children – continue COVID-19 testing for aerosol generating procedures, etc.)
2. Continue duplicate screening processes and continue to use the appropriate PPE, rubber dam isolation, intraoral high-volume evacuation extraoral suction units and assistants for aerosol generating procedures.
3. Continue to seek a point-of-care test and initiate the process for a CLIA certification waiver.
4. Increase capacity in the clinics.
5. Students resume experiences at service-learning sites statewide.

The college will continue to evaluate these protocols and use local and national guidance and research to make further modifications, if needed.

Thomas M. Petro, PhD, professor, oral biology, received funding to investigate a novel vaccine approach to COVID-19.

"I will investigate several of the COVID-19 structural proteins to determine if and how they might interfere with Type I interferon expression," Dr. Petro said.

This pilot project is funded by the University of Nebraska-Lincoln with the goal of stimulating research in this area. Dr. Petro is collaborating with Dr. Asit Pattnaik from the Nebraska Center for Virology.

Commencement and senior salutes held virtually

Due to the COVID-19 pandemic, UNMC determined that all colleges would hold virtual commencement ceremonies. The College of Dentistry's virtual commencement ceremony, held on May 7, 2020, was a memorable celebration where each graduate was recognized individually for their amazing achievements and honors.

The graduates' loved ones and the College of Dentistry community gathered virtually to celebrate the graduates and all they accomplished during their journeys at the College of Dentistry. (see next page for a list of the graduates)

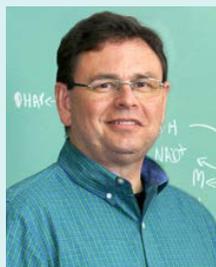

During virtual senior salute celebrations, held on May 5, 2020, faculty shared their favorite memories of the dental and dental hygiene classes of 2020 and messages of congratulations. Dr. Paula Harre, president of the College of Dentistry Alumni Association, welcomed the graduates to the college's alumni family and gave an overview of the myriad of ways the new alums can remain engaged with the college.

An excerpt from Dr. Yoshiharu Ameku's message during the dental senior salute:

"It certainly has been an unexpected ending to your educational journey. I recall interviewing many of you nearly five years ago, listening to your personal stories and the reasons why you wanted to become a dentist. During your interviews, I saw your compassion, grit, resilience, dedication and empathy. Fast forward to today and you have achieved your dreams."

Faculty teach aspiring health professionals virtually

UNMC and the College of Dentistry received a grant from the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation to participate in the Summer Health Professions Education Program (SHPEP), a national program that strengthens the academic proficiency and career development of students underrepresented in the health professions. Dean Guthmiller serves as a co-principal investigator on this grant.

This year, the SHPEP program was changed to an online format. Larry D. Crouch, PhD, associate professor, oral biology (pictured above), has served as coordinator of the SHPEP biomedical sciences section for seven years. Dr. Crouch made virtual presentations on inflammation and COVID-19; glycemic control, diabetes and COVID-19; and the neurophysiology of learning. Other presenters were Drs. Gregory Bennett, Janet Guthmiller, Yun Saksena, M.W. Vogt and Shayla Yoachim.

Students involved in college's pandemic response

The dental and dental hygiene students and residents have shown how committed they are to becoming extraordinary oral health care professionals by helping the College of Dentistry overcome the challenges that have arisen due to the COVID-19 pandemic. They have demonstrated amazing resiliency and compassion – qualities that are going to serve them well in their careers. They have:

attended town halls to brainstorm solutions to challenges, including how to welcome patients back to the college for comprehensive care and how to welcome new students; helped create training videos for the College of Dentistry community demonstrating proper PPE donning and doffing; organized a food drive as part of Support Your NEighbor, an initiative started by UNMC medical students to help those who are most susceptible to COVID-19 and promote positivity; and served on the clinic reentry task force to help plan for reestablishing comprehensive patient care.

"I am extremely happy that administration encouraged direct student involvement in the clinical reentry task force as it not only gave a voice to the class of 2021, but also a voice to our patients. We have a plan in place that will allow us to safely continue our dental education while also allowing us to meet the needs of our patients."

Brock Lewis, DDS,
President of Dental
Class of 2020

An excerpt from Brock's commencement speech:
"Throughout our academic journeys, we have faced trials and adversity. Our time at the College of Dentistry has been no different, and those difficulties create lasting memories. The classroom and clinical instruction at the college is second to none, but nothing has taught us more than moments of adversity. I urge all of us to learn and grow with the bumps in the road we will continue to face."

Brianna Hellings, RDH,
President of Dental
Hygiene Class of 2020

An excerpt from Brianna's commencement speech: "These last two years have been anything but ordinary. The dental hygiene class of 2020 are strong, resilient people who are able to rise above challenges, find answers to our questions, believe in our knowledge, and have our opinions be heard. I want to thank everyone who has helped us in this journey for all the time, tears and talents that have led us to our tomorrow."

Victor Romero, DDS

"Graduating marks a big moment for me and my family. I will be joining a private practice in Columbus where I will serve a largely Latino community. As a child growing up in California, I dreamt of following my late father's footsteps to become a dentist and be the much-needed connection between the Latino community and quality health care services. This is the opportunity I have been working towards—it is surreal to finally arrive."

Holly Joy Heien, DDS

"Earning my DDS has been a LONG journey. I am extremely grateful for the faculty at UNMC who pushed me to be a better clinician and who taught me many valuable lessons. I am so proud of the class of 2020 and how far we have all come. I am very excited to begin my next chapter. I will be working with the South Dakota Delta Dental Mobile Program providing no-cost dental care to children around the state of South Dakota."

Christopher Cooper, DDS

"It is both exciting and humbling to join a profession that changes lives. My journey to a DDS was only possible with the support of my family. I am also grateful to the dedicated faculty who instilled in me their love of dentistry and a drive to always strive for perfection. My dental career will forever be enriched by the opportunities I received at UNMC. I will be joining Omni Dental Group where I will serve families in Omaha and Council Bluffs."

Mikaela Sorensen, RDH

"I am thankful for the dental hygiene faculty at UNMC. I've never met people like them before. They were so easy to get to know and ended up feeling like family. They are people I will forever look up to as role models. I will forever be grateful for the experience I had at UNMC and am excited to start my professional journey. I will be joining Pine Ridge Dental in Lincoln where I will be able to help improve the oral health of adults and children."

College of Dentistry alumni tour the new learning spaces during the 2019 alumni reunion.

Transforming dental education

The clinical and virtual simulation laboratory and digital design studio were completed in October 2019. In these learning spaces, students are immersed in innovative educational experiences, developing cutting-edge skills and growing into tomorrow's leaders in oral health.

In the 5,500-square-foot, 64-station clinical and virtual simulation laboratory, students learn the latest clinical techniques and skills through clinical simulations and virtual dental trainers which use simulation technology to achieve a high level of realism. Cutting-edge 3D, virtual reality and haptics technology allow students to navigate and manipulate virtual clinical environments.

In the 700-square-foot, 15-station digital design studio, students use the latest CAD/CAM technology and an equipment studio with milling machines and 3D printers to design dentures and restorations. Students gain cutting-edge digital dentistry skills that will help them reach new levels in their professional careers.

"The new simulation lab is very intuitive and innovative. From the moment I walk inside, I can't help but feel amazed by how much has changed. The new simodonts give an in-depth virtual and tactile experience of preparing a tooth with amazing feedback on how I can improve myself, which is a surreal experience." — Sunit Patel, second-year dental student

A ribbon-cutting ceremony and open house for the benefactors of these new learning spaces was postponed due to COVID-19.

*"The new technology in the lab is amazing! It is great to be able to see our instructors' demonstrations from our work spaces. This has really made it easier to follow along step-by-step through procedures."
— Mitchell Kaus, second-year dental student*

"The new digital dentistry lab gives our students access to more technology than ever before. The digital revolution in dentistry is in full swing. With the new lab and equipment, we can outpace other schools in digital dentistry education and innovation." — Gregory Bennett, DMD, assistant professor, adult restorative dentistry

During the COVID-19 pandemic, College of Dentistry students take advantage of the clinical and virtual simulation laboratory to continue building their clinical skills.

Gregory Bennett, DMD, assistant professor, adult restorative dentistry, teaches the college's digital dentistry courses.

Bennett shares his excitement for digital dentistry with students

How are you introducing digital dentistry to students?

I've been focused on retraining the idea of CAD/CAM dentistry. As the M stands for manufacturing, there is a whole new world in dentistry thanks to 3D printing. I've been able to help students with projects that, when I was a student, I would've killed for because 3D printing would have saved me so much time. For instance, students have been able to do a diagnostic wax up using dental software, and then we 3D print a model. With the digital design studio, students have access to technology and software that any top dental lab in the world will be using to manufacture. We'll also have the first real dental 3D printers.

What makes the UNMC College of Dentistry's digital dentistry education different than other colleges?

I'm fairly confident with our new digital design lab that students will have access to more technology than pretty much anywhere. There are a handful of schools that are very technology focused, whether they tend to have more of a broad exposure or focus on one thing. Our students will have exposure to pretty much all the digital dentistry technology that's out there.

What would you tell a student who is contemplating dentistry; how is digital dentistry transforming the field?

Digital dentistry is why I'm a dentist. When I was in college, I sat next to a dentist on a flight and he showed me all the technology that he had at that point - lasers and CAD/CAM dentistry. I thought it was amazing. If you love technology, it's a fantastic job to be in. In the future, 3D printing should be in pretty much every dental office in every specialty. The technology has rapidly advanced.

Rear Admiral Timothy Ricks, assistant surgeon general and chief dental officer for the U.S. Public Health Service

Assistant surgeon general praises college's learning environment

"I am amazed by the UNMC College of Dentistry's learning environment. I've visited 25 schools and residency programs and this college has the most advanced learning technology I've seen."

Rear Admiral Timothy Ricks, assistant surgeon general and chief dental officer for the U.S. Public Health Service, visited the College of Dentistry on Feb. 11, 2020, to meet faculty, staff and students and tour the college, including the new clinical and virtual simulation laboratory, digital design studio and updated classrooms.

"I am amazed by the UNMC College of Dentistry's learning environment. I've visited 25 schools and residency programs and this college has the most advanced learning technology I've seen. The iWall is a public health educator's dream," Ricks said. He also toured the patient care clinics and learned about the college's community outreach efforts, including Children's Dental Day.

Ricks' visit included a presentation to the college community on the forthcoming 2020 Surgeon General's Report on Oral Health which describes key issues that currently affect the nation's oral health and identifies challenges and opportunities.

"It was an honor to have Rear Admiral Ricks share with us updates on national efforts to promote oral health and eliminate oral health disparities, including efforts to change Americans' perceptions of oral health and replicate effective programs, such as the Nebraska Teeth Forever program," said Janet Guthmiller, DDS, PhD, dean of the UNMC College of Dentistry.

Ricks drew attention to large-scale issues that have affected the nation's oral health in the past 20 years, including the aging population, substance abuse trends and e-cigarette use, and discussed how the forthcoming Surgeon General's report will articulate promising new directions for improving oral health equity across communities.

Throughout his presentation, Ricks reminded the college community how important it is as current and future oral health professionals to stay informed about, and participate in, local and national efforts to promote oral health and overcome health disparities.

"I wanted to open people's eyes to opportunities to join in the collective effort to improve our nation's oral health," Ricks said.

The college community found Ricks' presentation empowering.

Shelby Brown, a first-year dental student, said, "Rear Admiral Ricks inspired me to make a difference, especially to take part in helping to eliminate oral health disparities and stay informed about national oral health issues."

Moravec installed as president of the American Dental Hygienists' Association

Lisa Moravec, of Scottsbluff, Nebraska, was installed as the president of the American Dental Hygienists' Association (ADHA) on June 14, 2020. Moravec is an associate professor and site coordinator for the UNMC West Division Dental Hygiene program and the third hygienist from Nebraska to serve as president of the organization.

The American Dental Hygienists' Association is the largest national organization representing the professional interests of more than 185,000 registered dental hygienists across the country. ADHA works to support dental hygienists throughout their careers and advance the dental hygiene profession by developing new career paths, expanding opportunities for care, and providing the latest training and information.

"I am humbled, excited and truly honored to have the opportunity to serve my professional association. I am committed to learning and growing each day and hope to inspire others to strive to be the best versions of themselves. I am passionate about advancing the dental hygiene profession through engagement with our members and collaborative partners," Moravec said.

Moravec has held many leadership positions within ADHA, including president elect, vice president, district VIII trustee, and as a member of the executive, finance, student relations, and board policy and procedures committees. Additionally, she served on the board of the ADHA's Institute for Oral Health and was president of the Nebraska Dental Hygienists' Association. Moravec has received numerous leadership awards, including being named Nebraska's Dental Hygienist of the Year.

She received her Bachelor of Science in dental hygiene from the UNMC College of Dentistry in 2002 and her Master of Science in dental hygiene from Idaho State University in 2011.

"I am blessed to be in a profession that I love and am passionate about serving. ADHA has several strategic initiatives that I am excited to be a part of," Moravec said. "This quote by Mark Twain accurately captures how I feel about my job and profession, 'Find a job you enjoy doing and you will never have to work a day in your life.'"

"I am humbled, excited and truly honored to have the opportunity to serve my professional association. I am committed to learning and growing each day and hope to inspire others to strive to be the best versions of themselves."

College of Dentistry cuts ribbon on $2.6 million renovation of Omaha dental clinic

The growth of the Omaha dental clinic allows the College of Dentistry to increase the number of patients they serve, as well as accommodate a new residency program.

The College of Dentistry cut the ribbon on a $2.6 million renovation of their Omaha dental clinic at the Durham Outpatient Center on Oct. 14, 2019.

“The proximity of this clinic to our clinical partner, Nebraska Medicine, sets a new standard for care as it allows us to provide for the oral health care needs of patients,” said Chancellor Jeffrey P. Gold, MD.

The complete facility renovation expands the dental clinic from seven dental chairs to 15, adds multipurpose rooms for special procedures, updates all the dental operatories, adds a conference room and updates the sterilization lab, reception area and support spaces.

“This renovation allows the clinic to now serve as a rotation site for our dental students and dental hygiene students who are able to come alongside and learn and serve the citizens of this area and beyond,” said Janet Guthmiller, DDS, PhD, dean of the UNMC College of Dentistry.

Jay Hansen, DDS, director of advanced education in general dentistry, Kathleen Ausman, DDS, director of general practice residency, and Amir Farhangpour, DDS, assistant dean for Omaha Clinics, Omaha, joined Drs. Gold and Guthmiller in cutting the ribbon, officially marking the completion.

The growth of the dental clinic allows the College of Dentistry to increase the number of patients they serve, as well as accommodate a new residency program, Advanced Education in General Dentistry (AEGD), headed by Dr. Hansen, and the current General Practice Residency Program, headed by Dr. Ausman.

Speaking to attendees, Dr. Hansen pointed to the facility’s comfortable environment for patients, more efficient flow for patient management and care, and accessibility for patients with compromised mobility and complex medical conditions.

College of Dentistry alums, UNMC representatives and others attended the ribbon-cutting ceremony and toured the renovated clinic.

The complete facility renovation expands the dental clinic from seven dental chairs to 15.

The updated reception area offers patients a more modern, comfortable environment.

Members of the planning team use virtual reality to aid in designing dental suites in the Munroe-Meyer Institute's new building.

College developing dental clinic for individuals with intellectual and developmental disabilities

The College of Dentistry is working with UNMC's Munroe-Meyer Institute to develop a dental clinic, and provide specialized dental care, for individuals with intellectual and developmental disabilities. The clinic will be located in the new Munroe-Meyer Institute building that is set to open in 2021.

The Munroe-Meyer Institute's mission is to be world leaders in transforming the lives of all individuals with disabilities and complex health care needs, their families and the community through extraordinary patient care.

Jillian Wallen, BDS, MS, assistant dean for extramural activities and outreach, is a member of the planning team.

"It has been ten years since the college's pediatric dental clinic relocated from Munroe-Meyer to Children's Hospital and Medical Center. This state-of-the-art building will allow us to better serve these individuals and their families," Dr. Wallen said.

Claire Koukol, DDS, assistant professor, pediatric dentistry, has an instrumental role in developing the college's partnership with the Munroe-Meyer Institute.

"We are excited to be part of Munroe-Meyer's multi-disciplinary team. This partnership will allow us to tailor care and treatment needs to each patient and provide them with the quality care they deserve, and provide our students and residents with a wonderful learning experience seeing firsthand how well interprofessional health care works," Dr. Koukol said.

Students receive special thank you from second graders

The second grade class at Hill Elementary in Lincoln gave Dillon Arens and Zachary Berg, first-year dental students, a very special book full of thank you notes for teaching them how to keep their smiles healthy. Dillon and Zachary taught the students how to brush their teeth to get the 'sugar bugs' out and what dentists do.

Dillon and Zachary said, "This is really awesome. We're so happy the students got a lot out of our presentation."

Pediatric dentistry residents teach students healthy habits

The College of Dentistry Pediatric Dental Residency Program partners with Omaha Public Schools to teach Omaha Head Start students good oral health habits and what to expect when they visit the dentist. During the fall of 2019, the program reached more than 950 preschool children and provided more than 200 dental screenings.

"For some of these kids, this is their first time meeting a dentist. It's great to be able to talk with them about taking care of their teeth and developing healthy eating habits," said Spencer Burton, DDS, pediatric dentistry resident.

The West Division Dental Hygiene Program in Gering provides oral health care education and services in communities in western Nebraska. Dental hygiene students provided dental sealants to children in need at Banner County School in Harrisburg and Minatare Elementary in Minatare. They also hosted an oral health booth at the Latina Red Dress event in Gering. The event, a collaboration with the UNMC College of Nursing, offered Latina women opportunities to become informed about their health.

College receives 'Biggest Smile' award

Nebraska Mission of Mercy recognizes the college's contributions during their 2019 outreach event.

The College of Dentistry received recognition from Nebraska Mission of Mercy, a program that provides care to the uninsured, the underinsured and anyone who has difficulty getting to a dentist.

"We are very proud to give our 'Biggest Smile' award to the UNMC College of Dentistry for their outstanding contributions and care during the 2019 Nebraska Mission of Mercy. They helped provide care to many children and adults who desperately needed it and made a profound difference in their lives," said event chair Bruce Kuhn, DDS, MD, a 1983 alum of the UNMC College of Dentistry.

During the 2019 event, more than 60 volunteers from the college, including dental and dental hygiene students, faculty, residents, staff and alumni, helped provide $957,000 worth of dental services to more than 1,350 patients at the UNMC College of Dentistry Pediatric Dental Clinic at Children's Hospital & Medical Center and Brownell Talbot School in Omaha.

Corinne Van Osdel, DDS, postgraduate resident, was one of the volunteers.

"The Nebraska Mission of Mercy experience is always a highlight for students. I met dental professionals from across the state who donated their time to make a difference. Even my mom came to help," Dr. Van Osdel said. "I know I will participate in the future. The patients are so grateful for our care, and it is truly an honor to partake in such a big event that improves oral health care in the community."

Students distributed oral health items and education to 250 community members at the Asian Community and Cultural Center's Lunar New Year Festival, held Feb. 8, 2020, in Lincoln. They were able to interact with people of all ages and backgrounds. The students were joined by Dr. Charles F. Craft, Nebraska State Dental Health Director; Dr. James F. Jenkins, associate professor; and Dr. David G. Brown, professor.

Children's Dental Day draws big smiles

College community comes together to provide much-needed dental care to 218 children.

The College of Dentistry was full of smiles during the 37th annual Children's Dental Day, held March 6, 2020, in Lincoln. At the event, UNMC dental and dental hygiene students, postgraduate dental residents, faculty and staff provided free dental care and oral health education to 218 low-income and underserved children from communities across Nebraska.

"They did a really good job taking care of my teeth. Thank you, I'm smiling big now!" said Alonzo, a second grader from Fremont.

For the children and their parents, Children's Dental Day fills an important need. For many of the children, it was their first visit to a dentist. They received dental cleanings, restorations, extractions and other essential dental care — 1,625 procedures were performed and the value of the services provided was $155,775.

"I have a big family and can't afford dental care for all my children," said Heather McBright from Lincoln. "Without this service, my children wouldn't get all the care they need. I can't thank the students and all the volunteers enough. This is truly a blessing."

The College of Dentistry community benefits just as much as the patients.

"Our students, residents, faculty and staff are able to give back to our communities and care for children who otherwise wouldn't have access to dental care," said Jillian Wallen, BDS, MS, assistant dean for extramural activities and outreach for the UNMC College of Dentistry.

"Everyone involved has a role in changing lives 'one smile at a time.'"

Children's Dental Day also serves as an interprofessional education event. Students from the UNMC College of Nursing attend to provide wellness checks and students from other local colleges - Southeast Community College, Central Community College and the University of Nebraska-Lincoln — provide cleanings, clinical assistance and translation services.

Students value the hands-on learning experiences the event provides.

"Especially here in Nebraska, if you practice in a small town, you treat children. It's important for students to get real-life experience working with children," said Mary Pollmiller, a fourth-year dental student. "I absolutely love the outreach events that the college participates in. The people we serve are always very thankful for our services. Giving back to the community is something that is very important to the College of Dentistry, and to me!"

Starting in 2001, the UNMC College of Dentistry has held 37 Children's Dental Days in Lincoln and western Nebraska, treating more than 6,000 children and providing more than $3 million in dental services to low-income and underserved children. The event is part of the American Dental Association's oral health care program for underserved children, Give Kids A Smile.

The children are identified and prescreened by volunteers in their communities, including UNMC College of Dentistry alumni. Many of these volunteers attend the event with the children to provide emotional support.

Wallen named assistant dean for extramural activities and outreach

Jillian Wallen, BDS, MS, was named the College of Dentistry’s assistant dean for extramural activities and outreach in October 2019. Dr. Wallen assumed this leadership role to help grow and coordinate extramural activities and outreach.

How are you enjoying your new role so far?

I’ve had wonderful meetings with the classes. We’ve talked about our outreach programs and I’ve gotten great feedback from the students about their experiences. I’ve also visited with some alums about their experiences while they were in school.

I’m reading evaluations from preceptors and from students about extramural rotations and gaining a better understanding of the objectives of the program and how we can really rejuvenate it and ensure we offer our students great clinical experiences.

What are you looking forward to?

I’m looking forward to visiting with the preceptors and thanking them for providing important educational experiences for our students. In the future, I want to show the preceptors the clinical and virtual simulation laboratory and discuss what the future of dental education looks like for students.

I’m really looking forward to getting to know people better and continuing the college’s strong tradition of service.

Student Research Day

The College of Dentistry's annual Research Day, held Feb. 28, 2020, featured the innovative oral health research being done by third-year dental students, fourth-year dental hygiene students and postgraduate students. Through research projects, students gain knowledge to help them become leaders in oral health care.

"Most of the students' research has taken a year or more to conduct. There's always a wide range of topics spanning from clinical to basic sciences to educational research. Each year, I am more impressed with what our students can do," said Research Day committee chairman Amanda Dolen, RDH, BS, instructor, dental hygiene.

Wahl receives UNMC Distinguished Scientist Award

James K. Wahl, III, PhD, received UNMC's Distinguished Scientist Award on March 3, 2020. The award is given to researchers who have been among the most productive scientists at UNMC during the past five years. Dr. Wahl's research focus is epithelial cell adhesion.

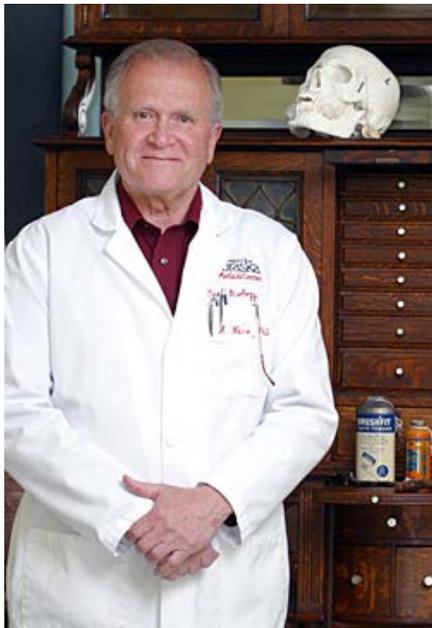

The goal of my research: Our group studies the cells that make up skin, as well as the cells that line the oral cavity. Specifically, we are interested in the protein complexes that allow these epithelial cells to interact with their neighbors and form a protective barrier. During wound healing, cells interact with neighboring cells to close the wound. On the other hand, during tumor cell migration, the individual tumor cells "turn off" the adhesive complexes and allow the tumor cell to migrate (metastasize) to distant sites in the body. We are working to understand the molecular mechanisms regulating cell adhesion.

My research will make a difference because: Understanding how epithelial cells maintain connections to their neighbors and how these contacts are remodeled is an important foundational question. When we know the mechanisms controlling cell to cell interactions, we can begin to understand processes like cancer cell metastasis, cutaneous wound healing and normal development.

"It is wonderful to be recognized for our research work at the College of Dentistry. This gives me the confidence that our research momentum will continue to grow through the student projects and faculty projects we're lucky enough to contribute to. I'd like to thank the college, our Dean for Research and Dean Guthmiller for the wonderful support," Dr. Wahl said.

Rosemary Dixon remembered for her gracious and kind spirit

Rosemary Dixon, a longtime supporter of the UNMC College of Dentistry, passed away peacefully on December 24, 2019. Rosemary and her husband, F. Gene Dixon, DDS, '47, were visionary philanthropists supporting the future of dental education. The depth and breadth of the Dixon's charitable support has touched every corner of the UNMC College of Dentistry and forever impacted the college's programs, faculty and students.

The Dixons established a scholarship to encourage student leadership, assisted with creating the college's research wing, endowed the college's first chair focusing on research, endowed a faculty fellowship for excellence in dental teaching, and assisted with major facility improvements in the college's north clinic. In grateful recognition of the Dixons' generous support, the college's auditorium was named the Dr. F. Gene & Rosemary Dixon Lecture Hall.

Rosemary's gracious spirit will forever be remembered. She touched many lives and hearts through her friendship.

"Rosemary Dixon's philanthropic efforts have made a significant impact on the lives of so many individuals in the dental community. As a past recipient of the Dixon scholarship, I have a great appreciation for all that Rosemary did to improve access to dental education and foster excellence in teaching." — Bryan J. Skar, DDS, assistant professor, pediatric dentistry, and Dixon scholarship recipient

Dr. Revis in 1944

George Revis, class of '44, shared memories of his time at the college

George Revis, DDS, '44, Denver, Colo., died May 15, 2020. Earlier this year, Dr. Revis shared his memories of his time at the UNMC College of Dentistry.

"I was born in Denver in 1921. It was a big thing to go away from school. There were 28 students in my dental class — all male — and I was in the U.S. Army during dental school. There was a library that was never occupied so we lived in it. Each morning we would go down five flights of stairs, stand at attention, then march to the cafeteria. We studied hard, but had fun. We went to dances and played lots of practical jokes."

"While I was in dental school, there was a shortage of medical interns due to the war and so many people being deployed, so the local hospital had senior dental students spend one month as medical interns. We lived at the hospital for the month and interned as first assistants to the surgeon. After I graduated from dental school, I became a dentist in Colorado. I was one of only two general practitioners in the whole city who got on staff at St. Anthony's Hospital because of my experience interning at the hospital in Lincoln."

Dr. Revis in 2020

Dr. Revis practiced dentistry for 40 years in Denver where he also was involved with research dealing with diagnosing diseases. His patients remember him for his quality dental work that "lasted for years," his passion for dentistry, and his sense of humor.
