Last week, iEXCEL took our production crew offsite to collaborate with the UNO School of Music to create a special holographic performance. This piece will become part of the iEXCEL library of holographic content, while bringing the Strauss Performing Arts Center to life for audiences at the Davis Global Center. The performance highlights the intersection of classical, performing arts with advanced science and technology to create an immersive experience for viewers. This partnership highlights key synergies between iEXCEL and the broader University of Nebraska community, as well as the cross-pollination between the arts and healthcare. The iEXCEL team was fortunate to work with Dr. Washington Garcia, Professor and Director of the School of Music. The performers include Dr. Mary Perkinson, Assistant Professor and Coordinator of String Studies, and Dr. Olga Smola, Visiting Instructor of Violin.
