

Visiting Students and Faculty Educational Use of Library Resources by Using a Temporary ID and Password

McGoogan Library of Medicine

To support you while you are affiliated with a University of Nebraska Medical Center campus program, your department or program will grant you a temporary Network ID and password, enabling you to be recognized as an authorized user of McGoogan Library. Your ID and password allow you to access electronic books, journals, and databases licensed by the McGoogan Library of Medicine. The library pays an educational rate for these resources and as a result, the publishers allow them to be used for noncommercial educational purposes only.

Acceptable Use.

Authorized users may view, reproduce, or store copies of these resources provided the materials are for personal use in connection with their responsibilities as a temporary member of the UNMC community.

Unacceptable Use.

- Authorized users may not use their ID and password to retrieve or distribute materials to others.
- You may not share your ID and password or allow third parties to use or benefit from articles or information you obtain from McGoogan Library electronic books, journals, or databases. For example, you may not use your access to locate a PDF of a journal article in full-text and send a copy of that a PDF to a colleague not affiliated with UNMC.
- You may not redistribute or resell content, in electronic or any other form.

Why are these restrictions in place?

The information housed in licensed electronic resources is a commodity. Fees must be paid to obtain and use it. Giving licensed information and/or articles to others who are not authorized users is a breach of library contracts that could subject McGoogan Library and UNMC to legal prosecution.
