BEST PRACTICES:
Care for the Complex Community Dwelling Older Adult

July 11-12, 2008

Supported in part by the Bureau of Health Professions, HRSA, for the Nebraska Geriatric Education Center.
course description
Experts from several disciplines will describe interdisciplinary solutions and management techniques to care for the older community dwelling adult with complex medical, pharmacologic, psychosocial, functional, and environmental needs. The conference format will include didactic lectures, case-based panel discussions and audience interaction.

course objectives
At the conclusion of this conference, the participant should be able to:
1. Describe the key causes, challenges and issues facing the complex community dwelling older adult.
2. Manage the psychosocial, environmental, physical and pharmacologic problems faced by the complex community dwelling older adult.
3. Design a comprehensive interdisciplinary management plan.
4. Function effectively on an interdisciplinary team.
5. Incorporate best practices for optimal transitions of care.
