

Preceptors enhance student learning

The following preceptors serve as on-site educators for third-year medical students who participate in two-month family medicine rotations. The volunteer preceptors are not paid for their time, and must provide room and board for the students. These preceptors' dedication to the College of Medicine is essential to the recruitment of young physicians to rural areas. Without their support, UNMC students would go without the unique opportunity to learn in a rural setting.
