

UNO/UNMC GENDER AND SEXUALITY RESOURCE CENTER ADVOCATE BILL OF RIGHTS

Below is a summary of the basic rights for victim and survivor advocates at UNO/UNMC Gender and Sexuality Resource Center.

1. Right to Termination of Services:

- The advocate has the right to terminate services should services be deemed unsafe for the advocate.

2. Right to Transfer Client:

- The advocate has the right to transfer clients to another advocate if there is a conflict of interest. For example, if the advocate knows the victim/survivor in their personal life (i.e., family member, friend, etc.).
- The advocate has the right to transfer clients to another advocate due to services needing to be provided by another agency.

3. Right to Privacy:

- The advocate has the right to personal privacy. This includes not adding the victim/survivor as a friend on social media.
- The advocate has the right to limit interactions with clients who are no longer receiving services from UNO/UNMC Gender and Sexuality Resource Center.

4. Right to Dignity:

- The advocate has the right to be treated with fairness and respect.
- The advocate has the right to not be put down by words or actions.
